

People v. Cabral, No. 00PDJ033 5/10/2000. Attorney Regulation.

The Presiding Disciplinary Judge accepted the parties' Conditional Admission of Misconduct and suspended Respondent, Alfonso S. Cabral, from the practice of law for a period of ninety days, with the full period of suspension stayed on the condition that the respondent be placed on probation for two years with conditions. In separate matters, respondent negligently commingled personal funds with those in his trust account in violation of Colo. RPC 1.15(a), failed to promptly withdraw from the representation of a client in violation of Colo. RPC 1.3 when his continued representation posed a conflict of interest in a criminal matter, respondent failed to promptly withdraw from representation to cure the conflict, respondent neglected a legal matter by failing to ensure that the final orders drafted by opposing counsel and signed by the court included material terms of the parties' stipulation in violation of Colo. RPC 1.3. Respondent was ordered to pay the costs of the disciplinary proceeding.